Bio

Mark Watt; Kelowna B.C. Mark is a graduate from Dalhousie University with over 28 years experience with the City of Kelowna. His position as Strategic Projects Manager draws on his multi-disciplinary experience to provide an integrated approach towards establishing sustainable infrastructure. This long range planning for Kelowna infrastructure involves systems integration for water, waste and utilities, utilizing the energy, heat and by-products with innovative solutions. Mark's previous experience as Environment Manager and Solid Waste Manager included all facets of Environmental Engineering, Planning and Policy, Operations Planning and Project Management ($50 million in the last 6 years) including the following solid waste focus areas: Manager of Solid Waste (5 years) - Glenmore Landfill Operations and Engineering, and the OGOGROW Composting partnership with City Of Vernon. Over $22 million in capital projects in 4 years at the Landfill and the compost sites and $5 million/year in operations. Solid Waste Innovative Projects (Microturbine Project -2005 and Biosolids Compost Project -2006 have both won UBCM awards for Innovation). Project Contract development-implementation for curbside service for the City/Region ($30 million for curbside and $7 million for Carts) from concept to implementation 2007-2009. More recently his efforts have concentrated on waste to energy solutions for solid waste and waste water which includes District Energy and Carbon Planning and also Master Water Planning for Kelowna for quality and quantity. He is both a regular and technical associate for Solid Waste Association of North America, a BCWWA (Regular Member) and past member of Canadian Water Resources Association
